

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

At the outset, I herewith accord my sincere gratitude to the leaders of Cachar Hill Tribes Synod for granting me study leave with full salary and to the Tangram Presbytery for their understanding of the need for further studies in spite of shortage of pastoral ministry in the Presbytery. I hereby acknowledge the valuable guidance and advice of my Guide Miss S. Thanchhungi, without whose guidance this thesis must have not come in this shape. I extend my heartfelt thanks to the Rev. S.D. Lakiang, Pastor Sumchonlal, who have been helpful and resourceful enough to collect materials relevant for my thesis. Many thanks are also accorded to my wife and son for their prayer support and managing themselves during my absence from home.

I am grateful as well to the Principal, librarian and all staff members of John Roberts Theological Seminary for extending all possible help during my studies. Last but not the least, I ought to give thanks to the Lord whom I serve for granting me spiritual and physical health and enables me to accomplish my studies at John Roberts Theological Seminary.

Dated Mawklot,
March 20, 2001

Rev. Lalneithang Hrangkhoh